

I'm writing to complain about the recent fines levied again the Clear Channel over the Howard Stern show. Apparently, the people at the FCC deem the freedom of speech wrong, to do something like this. I personally don't even listen to Howard Stern, he is not broadcast in my area. But the point of this whole matter, is that people that complain have NO BUSINESS LISTENING TO THE DAMN SHOW or any show like it. It's all about personal preference. If they don't like it, then why are they listening to it enough to complain about it ? A lot of people don't like Pornography, but it is still available. A lot of people don't like the fact we are taking over a country for oil, but the government still has our men and women over there getting killed. Frankly, i find gospel music offensive, yet it is still on the airwaves? Do i complain? No, i don't tune in. It is as simple as that. In a day in age where 90% of the population swears in front of their children, you are worried about what they hear on a radio that those same parents need to be monitoring. Those Children in Iraq see people (mostly family members) getting blown to shreds in front of their own homes. THAT IS REAL. What will the government do about that? Not a damn thing. FREEDOM OF SPEECH IS A WONDERFUL THING. DON'T FUCK IT UP FOR ALL OF US BECAUSE OF A FEW. If you really want to stop all the stuff going on over the airwaves, get congress to amend the constitution nullifying the 1st first amendment.
